Colebrook Academy To Be The Subject Of New Reality TV Show

-by Amelia Sweatt

On August 26, 2016, the pilot episode for the new MTV reality show Hallways of CA will air at 9 p.m. EDT. The new show was developed because the producers of MTV wished to portray what occurred in the hallways of an average high school in a small town.

Currently, MTV is still looking for any Colebrook Academy students who would like to be part of the new show.

“We’re really excited about this,” said an unnamed MTV representative. “So far, everything has been urban; now we can show people what small town schools are like.”

If any students are interested in being a part of this, they can contact MTV at (800) 626-3131.

NFL Star Rob Gronkowski To Be Guest Gym Teacher

-by Taylor Siewierski

The 6-foot-6, 265 pound tight end of the New England Patriots plans to come north to CES during the week of May 2nd. Not only will ‘Gronk’ be the guest gym teacher for CA students, he is also planning to hold a free raffle. Any student of Colebrook Academy can enter their name for a chance to take a trip on his new ‘party ship’ in the summer of 2016. The expedition will start in Miami, and take the winner to Gronk Island, where they will inevitably have the time of their life.

Colebrook Academy To Finally Get Its Own Gymnasium

-by Morgan Ducret

After a long wait, CA is finally getting its own gym, which is expected to open in the fall of 2017. In addition to a full-length basketball court with parquet floor, the new building will feature a JumboTron and high quality locker rooms, each with its own hot tub, steam room, and massage table. The highlight of the new facility will be the Colebrook Mohawk painted at center court.

Construction is slated to begin in the fall of 2016.
