St. Paul's School to Welcome Juniors Kiahna Smith and Makaila Weir This Summer

-by Morgan Ducret

Soon-to-be seniors Kiahna Smith and Makaila Weir have been accepted into the Advanced Studies Program at St. Paul's School in Concord, NH.

The two will be attending this summer for the opportunity to attend programs that are not offered here at Colebrook Academy. Of the many choices, both Smith and Weir will be studying Shakespeare For Performance.

Smith recalls the process of admission as long, nerve-racking, and having the same anxiety as applying for colleges. Several referrals were required, as well as multiple questionnaires submitted by the applicant, a club advisor, a teacher, and the guidance counselor.

Smith and Weir were also required to write a number of essays on a range of criteria as to who they are, why they should be accepted, and how they became informed of St. Paul's.

Smith's advice for future applicants: "Choose a field that will benefit you wisely. Since you're a junior, you need to start really thinking about what to do for college."

On Saturday, May 7, Colebrook Academy students held their Masquerade-themed Prom at the Northland in Canaan, VT. Before dinner, students and parents were brought to a nearby gazebo for pictures. Once the pictures were completed, students, alumni, and guests entered the Northland for a night of dinner and dancing. There was a variety of music to interest every generation present. CA Players' Murder At The Malt Shop Delights Crowds

Colebrook Academy Drama Club performed Murder at The Malt Shop April 29 and 30 at the Tillotson Center. Set in a '50s malt shop, the play was about the murder of high school principal Jerry Atrick, played by Chandler Biron. Sheriff Colin Allcars, played by Melaney Hibbard, conducted a thorough investigation, questioning all those present at the malt shop when the body was found.

The play was light and funny- each character's name was a pun, such as Noah Count, Dee Lighted, and Holly Wood, that was based on each one's personality. Familiar characters ranged from cheerleaders and jocks, to artists, radio show hosts, and rebels. There were even a few old ladies and a school teacher. With classic fifties costumes and slang, the play had a great turnout, with nearly full audiences on both nights.
